

ALEXANDRIA, VA.
WEDNESDAY EVENING, DECEMBER 3.

THE SECRETARIES OF War and the Navy want large appropriations for fortifications and naval armaments, and the President agrees with them. Few sensible do. This nation certainly does not want to invade any other, and just as certainly no other nation wishes to invade it. But if it were otherwise, the conflict between the States of this country, when neither action was as well provided for war as now, shows that no such appropriations are necessary, and that if an armed foe were to step on the soil of this country he would be driven back before he had taken his first meal, and that hostile fleets would be blown out of the water by torpedo boats before they could get within shelling distance of the shore.

THE PRESIDENT in his message to Congress says the civil service law, so far as he can learn, has been faithfully executed. We, this assertion shows that the President is sincere, or that with all the means of obtaining information at easy command, he doesn't even know what is going on under his nose. That the civil service law is not executed faithfully in the matter of appointments is a fact known of all men, and they also know that the government refuses to prosecute the men indicted in the criminal court of Washington for violating the law by collecting political assessments from federal office holders in that city.

PRESIDENT HARRISON praises the honesty of his subordinates, without exception. And yet he must know, if he reads the law and gospel of his own party, the New York Tribune, that not only have charges of bribery and corruption been brought against Commissioner Ramm of the Pension Bureau, but that those charges have been investigated by a Congressional committee and been sustained by the testimony of reliable witnesses. But he probably allowed Mr. Ramm to write the paragraph in his message relating to the Pension Bureau, and didn't even take the trouble to revise it.

CHICAGO'S WORLD'S FAIR has already, according to the report of the Secretary of the Treasury, cost the government fifty thousand dollars, and that, too, though even the title of the fair has not yet been definitely determined. Now if to select the site of the fair cost fifty thousand dollars, how much will the whole fair cost? But the poor people of the country will be taxed on their clothing, fuel, blankets, tin pans and medicine to pay the whole amount, no matter how many millions it may be. No wonder they revolted from republican rule last month.

THOUGH Congress has been in session only three days, bills have already been introduced which, if passed, will increase the pension expenditures eighty million, and that, too, though the present appropriation is one hundred and fifty million, the amount for last month being one half of the entire receipts of the government for that month. The people who are taxed on the necessities of life to raise this immense sum wouldn't complain so much if it went to the crippled soldiers, but most of it goes to bums, deserters, malingers and pension agents.

PRESIDENT POLK, of the Farmer's Alliance, is opposed to all southern men who say anything against the North. Mr. Polk is more mild than Moses. Southern people must accept all the abuse cast upon them by northern South-baters without a word in reply. This is more than human nature, let alone southern people, is capable of, and if the members of the Alliance of North Carolina are, they are different from their allies in Virginia.

MR. HARRISON recommends that Congress make large appropriations to irrigate the dry lands of the West. Why the people of all the rest of the country should be taxed to pay for irrigating the lands of a few western land grabbers is what only the late and their friend, Mr. Harrison, can tell.

FROM WASHINGTON.
[Special Correspondence of the Alexandria Gazette and Virginia Advertiser.]
WASHINGTON, D. C., Dec. 3, 1890.

Up to the present time the democratic Senators, while unanimous in their opposition to the national elections bill, have not found it necessary to unite upon a distinct party policy of antagonism. Such opposition as has been shown has been of an individual character. Yesterday's proceedings in the Senate where for a time there appeared to be a difference of opinion between certain democratic Senators as to the best method of procedure, caused the more experienced Senators on the minority side of the chamber to realize the necessity for united party action. Accordingly a caucus has been called and will be held immediately after the adjournment to-day.

Congressman O'Fallon of Virginia being asked this morning about the published report that he is a candidate for the speakership of the next House, said he never sought nor shirked responsibilities, and that he had never said he was a candidate. Mr. O'Fallon's numerous friends here say that his eye is on the governorship of his State, not the speakership of the House.

Numerous petitions for the immediate passage of the tobacco rebate bill were presented in the Senate to-day. Mr. Allison, in presenting some, took occasion to say that the omission of the rebate section of the McKinley bill was purely accidental, thus contradicting what Senator Sherman has said outside the Senate. Mr. McKinley said this morning that the ways and means committee of the House would meet on Friday next, that it would report the rebate bill favorably, and that from the conversations he has already had with members of both Houses of Congress on the subject, he was sure the bill would be passed before the first of the new year.

The beneficiaries of the bill for the relief of the Chesapeake Female College, in Elizabeth City county, Va., are not indebted to Mr. Bowden, the representative of that district, who introduced it last session, for its passage yesterday by the House, as he was absent, probably taking evidence to contest the seat of Dr. Lawson, his fairly elected democratic successor. It would have been defeated except for the effective support it received from the democratic members of the House from his State.

Senator Hear told a friend this morning that, with the exception of Senators Spooner and Evans, he had not heard of any republican Senators who intend to speak on the Force bill, but that the democratic Senators would be allowed to discuss it a reasonable time. Being asked what would be considered a reasonable time, he said that when it became apparent that the defeat of the bill would be accomplished by dilatory speeches, a committee of the republican caucus would be appointed to act with the republican steering committee in the preparation of a gag law, and that the republican majority in the Senate was now large enough to pass such a law and thereby to bring the debate to a close and pass the bill. Mr. Mills of the House says he fears the bill will pass the Senate, and that its fate in the House, if it shall be returned to that body, will depend upon the ability of the republicans to hold a quorum of their party, as the democrats will certainly resort to every constitutional means by which its defeat can be secured.

In the House to-day a bill was introduced by a republican to limit to $1 instead of $10 the fee which any pension agent may receive for prosecuting a claim for increase of pension. In the Senate a bill was introduced also by a republican to reduce letter postage to one cent.

Serious efforts will be made in both Houses of Congress to pass a free silver coinage bill at this session, but it is doubtful if they will succeed. In the first place, Mr. Speaker Reed is opposed to such a bill, and in the second, Mr. Harrison doesn't want to stand the risk of either approving or vetoing it, and as nearly if not all the defeated republican members of the House are applicants for places at his disposal, they are not likely to do anything that will displease him.

Gen. Schofield received a telegram this morning saying that affairs were quiet and unchanged at the Rebel agency. This was the only information received in regard to the Indian situation. Orders were to-day issued for the First, Fifth and Seventh regiments of infantry to proceed at once to the scene of the threatened outbreak. The First and Seventh regiments will proceed first to Omaha and there await further orders.

At a secret informal conference of the more prominent democratic members of the House, held at a supper given by Mr. Rockbridge last night it was determined to offer no opposition to two or three of the less important regular appropriation bills, but that if it became apparent that the Senate is bent on passing the Force bill, then to combine operations at once upon all the other appropriation bills and delay the passage thereof so as to reduce the time they will have to fight the Force bill, in order to defeat it.

Among the nominations sent to the Senate to-day are the following: Chief Engineer Geo. W. Melville, U. S. N., to be advanced one grade, and Assistant Engineer Fred C. Belg to be Passed Assistant Engineer.

The morning hour in the House to-day was consumed in a debate on the copyright bill, and in the Senate on a resolution in reference to the election of a site for a new government printing office.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

The czar has forbidden the employment of Austrian workmen in Russia.

The Duke of Aosta, of Italy, wants to marry the Princess Louise, his cousin and mother-in-law.

The American doctors in Berlin have as yet been unable to obtain any of Dr. Koch's lymph.

The run on the Keystone Bank, of Philadelphia, has ended, the depositors having been assured that the institution was sound.

Gen. Miles is reported as regarding the outlook in the Indian country as threatening. Frost and snow, however, are breaking up the ghost dances.

Captain Frank Howes, of the steamer Dorchester, which arrived in Baltimore yesterday, reports that he saw large whales in the bay on Monday afternoon.

Secretary of the Treasury Windom in his annual report says the surplus of the fiscal year ended on Sept. 30 was $105,344,496, while he estimates the surplus for the year ending with June, 1892, at only $15,147,700.

Mrs. Julia A. Lippincott, who was charged with raising thousands of dollars upon alleged spurious notes while her husband was proprietor of Haddon Hall, Atlantic City, was yesterday acquitted.

In the municipal elections held in Louisville, Ky., New Haven, Conn., and Vicksburg, Miss., yesterday, the democrats were elected; at Springfield, Mass., the republicans elected their Mayor.

Despatches from Gibraltar state that there are grave fears of a water famine on the rocks. There is no water in the tanks belonging to the private houses, while there is very little in the large naval and military tanks.

Mr. Parnell, it is said, has already appointed the wedding day, about six months hence, for himself and Mrs. O'Shea. Those who have met the pair say that they are passionately devoted to each other, and that Mrs. O'Shea's one ambition for years has been to become Mrs. Parnell.

The Canal.

The property of the C. and O. canal, in the District of Columbia, was yesterday transferred from the receivers to the trustees for the bondholders.

The trustees, who are John K. Cowen, Bradley T. Johnson and Hugh L. Bond, of Baltimore; Richard Bryan, of Richmond, and Henry H. Kieley, of Washington county, Md., at once took possession of the office of the Canal Company in Georgetown. A general manager will be appointed as soon as possible, whose office will be in Georgetown. The raising of a deal to be done on the section between the District line and Cumberland, and the trustees are now completing the details so that gangs of workmen can be sent at once to repair the dams and the culverts. They expect to have the canal ready for use by the 1st of May, which is the time fixed by the decree of the court.

The B. & O. Railroad will have virtual control of the canal and as water transportation is cheaper than carriage by rail, that company thinks that the George's Creek canal can be brought into successful competition with the coal from the Pocahontas and Kanawha regions of West Virginia, which is now playing such an important part in the development of the two Virginias.

Canal boats of much stouter construction than those now used would be useless for the transportation of coal down the Potomac to Lambert's point and New Port News or some adjacent landing, and the whole business of the canal would change from the insignificant proportion of recent years to its former activity.

TELEGRAPHIC BREVITIES.

Central New York was visited by the second severe snow storm of the season to-day.

W. R. Thornell, cashier of the Boston National Bank in Seattle is absent in his accounts.

Albert H. Smith, a banker who was convicted of forgery in raising a certificate of Lake Shore stock, was sentenced in New York to-day to 17 years imprisonment.

The gas cut department of the Scotten Tobacco Works, at Detroit, was destroyed by fire this morning. It was worth $100,000. The stock was also a total loss.

The opinion is gaining ground that several indictments will be found against Chicago shippers and railway officials for violation of the interstate commerce law.

The Arlington Hotel and several stores at Oxford, Ala., were burned this morning. The total loss on buildings and goods is $33,000. Five firemen were badly burned.

The steamer E. Hopins, from New York, for Glasgow, concerning whose safety some anxiety has been felt, was sighted off the coast of Ireland this morning. Her shaft is broken.

A heavy snow storm is raging along New Jersey coast. The surf is very strong and cutting away the beach. No wrecks have been reported between Sandy Hook and Barnegat Bay yet.

During a fire this morning at the bakery of Charles Rawling in Philadelphia, Lewis Rawling, aged five years, was suffocated to death. The child was sleeping in an upper room of the house.

The striking Alabama coal miners were yesterday joined by nearly all who were at work on Monday, and all the miners are idle except where convicts are worked, and negro miners have been secured.

The dead body of a man named Hawley was found lying across his hearth in Henderson county, Ill., shot through the heart. His brother-in-law confesses that he committed the deed, but claims that he did it in self-defense.

Navigation has ceased on the upper Hudson river. Newburg and Albany steamers made their last trips yesterday. They report the ice about the Catskills from one to three inches thick and increasing all the time. The steamer Drew was caught in the ice but got out all right and passed down the river early this morning.

The trial of Mrs. Nellie Peary, on the charge of murdering Mrs. Hogg and the latter's infant child, ended in London to-day. The jury returned a verdict of guilty, and the prisoner was sentenced to be hanged. Hogg, the husband of the murdered woman, testified at the coroner's inquest that a liaison had existed between himself and Mrs. Peary, and that the murder was the outcome of a quarrel between the latter and his wife.

Requiescat in Pace.

Tread light on the turf which you dark mound enclose.

Where o'er its tall grass the willow weaves; For there, pale and breathless, John Ingalls reposes.

Cue the pride of his State and the dread of the grave.

Ah! long shall his friends in Kansas be mourning, And many a tear for Johnnie will flow; For never again shall they see him returning To the Senate to deal with his democratic foe.

Above him the cold frost of midnight is falling; The grim prowling wolves their companions are calling, And their loud, moaning outcry, so wild and appalling, Make music for John and McGinty below.

MAINE, Nov. 29.

The New York Mail and Express special from Albany says about a strange story to the effect that peace has been patched up between Cleveland and Hill. Colonel Dan S. Lamont has had several conferences with the Governor lately. This would indicate that something of more than ordinary importance was under discussion. If it is true that peace has been declared it means that Hill will be the next United States Senator and will leave the track clear for Cleveland in 1892. Roswell P. Flower is reported to have been sent for Governor.

Proceedings of Congress.
WASHINGTON, D. C., Dec. 3.
SENATE.

Mr. Cullom introduced a bill to reduce letter postage to one cent.

A resolution offered yesterday by Mr. Cameron in relation to a site for the new public printing office building in this city, was taken up and debated at length and referred to the committee on printing.

A joint resolution to issue arms to the States of North and South Dakota and Nebraska was then taken up.

Mr. Voorhees charged the situation to the fact of the Indians being starved and was replied to by Messrs. Dawes and Pierce. The debate was interrupted at 2 o'clock by the election bill coming up as the unfinished business. Mr. Hear in charge of the bill, said that in view of the fact that on reporting the bill at the close of the last session he had addressed the Senate upon it, he would now forego any opening of the debate, but would content himself with answering whatever objection should be made to the bill on the democratic side of the chamber.

Mr. Turpie thereupon opened the discussion in opposition.

HOUSE.

After the reading of the journal the consideration of the copyright bill was resumed and debated at length.

Mr. Breckinridge said the opposition to the bill was the old argument he had heard of in Kentucky, when one old colored man asked another: "Sam, how's it with you sell your brooms cheaper than me, when I steals the straw?" "Oh; that aint nothin'" was the reply. "I steas my brooms ready made."

The bill was passed by a vote of 139 to 95.

There is no clue to the murderer.

What a Kiss Did.

MARTINSVILLE, Ind., Dec. 3.—Miss Mary Hubbard, daughter of County Treasurer Hubbard, was engaged to be married to James S. Wick. On Tuesday evening previous to the day set for the ceremony she went to practice on the piano at the Rev. E. B. Vase's house, and while in a room with that gentleman he kissed her. As they passed out of the door he put his arm around her and kissed her again. She at once informed her parents, and her father was so incensed that he gave the clergyman just three weeks to get out of the town. The church board met on Monday night, heard his statement, and accepted Vase's resignation.

Robbed a Widow—Killed a Man.

CHARLETON, W. Va., Dec. 3.—About one o'clock yesterday morning five unknown robbers entered the residence of Mrs. Carey, a wealthy widow residing at Sewell, took the woman from bed, bound and gagged her, and while one of the robbers stood over her, revolver in hand, the others ransacked the house, getting away with $1,000 in money. Two of the robbers were captured, but they soon after escaped, and in the exchange of revolver shots which followed, a Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad foreman named Mason was shot dead.

Planned Her Murder.

ST. PAUL, Minn., Dec. 3.—The case of Walter F. Horton, under arrest on a charge of having drowned his wife and child in the Mississippi river on the evening of August 14 last, while out rowing, came up for trial yesterday. The evidence indicates that Horton planned the murder to get rid of his wife in order to be free to marry Miss Mary Van Wie, a school teacher in this city. Sensational letters from Miss Van Wie were read in court and they indicated that Horton intended to marry her in a few months.

Dr. Mary Walker.

OSWEGO, N. Y., Dec. 3.—The condition of Dr. Mary Walker, who was reported dying at her home at Buks Hill, six miles west of Oswego, is much improved and she will soon commence work preparing papers to be presented to Congress relative to her pension claim. While the sheriff was proceeding with the prisoner to the station to return him to jail a force of men intercepted him and lynched the prisoner by the roadside.

After another day of wrangling and heated discussion, the Irish Nationalists in London yesterday adjourned without taking final action on Parnell. A vote on a motion to postpone the debate was lost, showing a majority of fifteen against Parnell. NEW YORK, Dec. 3.—The stock market showed a quiet opening with all the animation in about a half dozen stocks, and while first prices were almost uniformly higher than last evening's prices, the advances extending to ¼ per cent, the early trading developed a weak tone and the opening prices were generally lost. Late in the hour small fractional advances were scored in the general list. At 11 o'clock the market was quiet but firm to strong, generally at something better than first prices.
